Please look at the organisations' websites to double check times and arrangements

Six FREE events to do at the National History Museum

1. Stomp like a dinosaur

Do your best T.rex impression as you explore the different time periods in which dinosaurs lives, sort the facts from the myths about why they died out and what scientific research has taught us about these prehistoric giants.

Location – Dinosaur Gallery

2. Take a photo with Andy's Clocks

Waistcoat. Gizmo. Hat. Take me to the time of the dinosaurs!

Keep an eye out for Andy's clock from the CBeebies shows Andy's Dinosaur Adventures and Andy's Prehistoric Adventures.

Location – Central Café

3. Quake in your boots

Learn about the amazing natural forces that help shape our planet in the Volcanoes and Earthquakes gallery. From the casts of victims from the Mount Vesuvius eruption of AD 79 to objects melted by lava flows, the Earth's surface is laid bare in this gallery.

Don't forget to try out the earthquake simulator.

Location – Red Zone. Travel up the escalator in Earth Hall and turn left.

4. Hang out with Hope

You're in for the biggest welcome in London. Look up at the skeleton of the blue whale – the largest animal on Earth. This female blue whale is named Hope, as a symbol of humanity's power to shape a sustainable future.

Location – Hintze Hall

5. Say hi to a Stegosaurus

Meet this incredible dinosaur specimen, the most intact Stegosaurus fossil skeleton ever found. It's three metres tall and almost six metres long, giving you a dramatic welcome to Earth Hall.

Location – Earth Hall

6. Get curious in our new gardens

Scan the pond for dragonflies; follow in the footsteps of our earliest Human ancestors and learn what the future of our planet might look like, all in our new Gardens.

Location – Our Gardens
